Happy Mother's Day

think on these things

Phil 4:8-9

Spread throughout my mother's home were a great number of family pictures. Whenever I would come home to visit, I would always check to see if any new pictures had been added since my last visit. After getting married and having children of my own, Mom's collection of pictures increased greatly (she loved and was mighty proud of her grandchildren!). Occasionally a picture would fall off the wall or the piano and the frame would break. Rather than throwing the picture away with the broken frame, Mom would set the picture up against another frame until the broken one could be replaced. She taught me that the frame is not what's important, but what is displayed in the frame. In preparing for the message this week, I read a similar thought which I'll paraphrase here: "We are to be empty frames, presenting ourselves to God as such, assured that He can put Jesus Christ there and that when people look at us, they will see Jesus in us." So, my question is: "When people look at you, do they see Jesus?" Something to think about this week.

Blessings,

Trace
