Think on These Things

A man in Portland, Maine, notified the Bureau of Missing Persons of the absence of his wife. He said she had been missing for fifteen years. The chief was shocked and asked why he had waited so long to report it.

“Well,” he said, “I just got kind of lonesome.”

I had to chuckle at this story and I hope it brings a smile to your face as well. We have so many terrible things going on in this world today, that sometimes we need to remember that God created humor and laughter and that "a merry heart does good, like medicine, but a broken spirit dries the bones." (Prov 17:22) Jesus promised that in this world we would have tribulation, but that we should be of good cheer, because He has overcome the world (from John 16:33). My point here is that if Jesus is our Savior, we should have joy, cheerfulness, and even be able to laugh (although not at the expense of another), in the midst of whatever we are going through. God promises that His children will never walk alone, but that He will go along with us, holding us, helping us, comforting us, and keeping us. God is greater than our struggles. I pray that He will encourage you today and that you will even be able to smile, maybe laugh, remembering that He is still in control and that He loves you more than you can even imagine.

Something to think about as we go about our week.

Love and blessings,

Trace
