Think On These Things

Mothers. Where would we be without them? For one thing, we wouldn't be here! Even though science has reduced the birth of a human being to nothing more than could be accomplished with test tubes and in a laboratory setting, God Himself chose to have His Son enter this world as a newborn Baby with a young, teenaged, virgin girl chosen by God to be the one who gave birth to the Messiah. Mothers arguably have the toughest job on the planet as they are not only

God's chosen vessels to bring new life into this world, but they are also required to be peacemakers, doctors, coaches, cheerleaders, counselors, friends, organizers, chefs, fashion consultants, spiritual advisors, example setters, and taxi drivers. They do all of these things, and much more, with no salary, no holidays, no PTO days, and often with little or no gratitude shown to them by their charges. But, ask any mother worthy of the title and she will tell you that while it is the most exhausting thing she could ever do, it is also the most rewarding when she sees her child smile his first smile, take his first steps, say his first words, make his first right choices, and to say "Thanks, Mom" and mean it. She is eternally rewarded when she plants the seeds that she, or someone else, may harvest: the seeds which lead to salvation and eternal life in Jesus Christ. I, for one, can truly say, "Thanks Mom, for telling me about Jesus, for faithfully praying for me, and for living out your faith as a Godly example to me."

Today, Mother's Day, if you are able to thank your Mom in person or on the phone, please do so! If, like me and many others, you are no longer able to do so, then please take time to thank God for giving you a mother who chose to give birth to you and who, hopefully, showed you the tender love that God intends all mothers to show their children. To all you ladies today: Happy

Mother's Day!

Love and blessings,

Trace
